Project topics:

1. Discuss the steps of Writing Process.

2. Write a substance and critical appreciation of the following passage:

"A common complaint about businessmen is that they take advantage of consumers through dishonest advertising. Instead of providing useful information for making rational choices, advertisements often appeal to consumers' emotions to persuade them to buy products regardless of need. This complaint is true and obvious to all except those who are naive. Advertisements are designed to convince consumers to favour one product over others, and presenting unbiased and unemotional information would not help the advertisers to achieve their goal. They often deviate from honest practices when they calculate the profits they will earn. They sometimes mislead their customers with unrealistic promises and attempt to persuade people who usually spend their hard-earned money. However, it cannot be denied that when people purchase a product in the marketplace, they get the product they choose, and they get it because they chose it. In contrast, writers have to be more restrained when publishing their books and articles because people will evaluate the value of their published claims. They try to sell their publications to readers who can decisively accept or reject them without being directly affected by the choices of others."
